

We are looking for a technically-oriented colleague for a position of Field Engineer HVAC

A leading manufacturer of heating and ventilation systems, with nearly 20-years history in Slovakia and its headquarters in Liechtenstein, is looking for an enthusiastic colleague with HVAC expertise. We appreciate proactive approach, teamwork spirit and willingness to learn new things.

Primary Location: Slovakia

Responsibility

Key person responsible for technical and engineering advice of our HVAC solutions.

Principal Duties

- meeting with clients to design new systems or finding solutions for existing system problems
- active contribution to the development and delivery of our products into the market by providing sales technical assistance
- supporting sales colleagues during planning, installation and commissioning and heading the technical part of projects
- designing and developing new system solutions of HVAC projects
- heading product trainings, technical presentations and demonstration of our technical solutions internally and externally
- working on after-sales support including the remote regulation of our unit
- reporting activities in company CRM
- supporting marketing activities focused on technical marketing

Important Skills

- HVAC technical background with university degree
- Min. 2 years experience from HVAC
- solid problem solving skills to ensure the heating, cooling, refrigeration, and ventilation systems, thinking out of the box
- English on communication level
- independence, flexibility
- business oriented and proactive mindset
- team player
- readiness for substantial portion of work outside the office and for extensive travelling in the country and abroad